

INSTITUTE OF MEDICINE

OF THE NATIONAL ACADEMIES

BOARD ON GLOBAL HEALTH
FORUM ON GLOBAL VIOLENCE PREVENTION

Elder Abuse and its Prevention - A Workshop Planning Committee Biographies

Jacquelyn C. Campbell, Ph.D., R.N. (co-chair), is the Anna D. Wolf Chair and a Professor in the Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing with a joint appointment in the Bloomberg School of Public Health and one of the inaugural Gilman Scholars at JHU. She is also the National Program Director of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Nurse Faculty Scholars program. Dr. Campbell has been conducting advocacy policy work and research in the area of violence against women since 1980, with 12 major federally funded research grants and more than 220 articles and seven books. She is an elected member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, and the American Academy of Nursing as well as Chair of the Board of Directors of Futures without Violence. She served on the Department of Defense Task Force on Domestic Violence and has provided consultation to DHHS, CDC, WHO, USAID and received the National Friends of the NINR Research Pathfinder Award, the Sigma Theta Tau International Nurse Researcher Award, and the American Society of Criminology Vollmer Award for advancing justice. Dr. Campbell co-Chaired the Steering Committee for the World Health Organization Multi-country study on Violence Against Women and Women's Health, has been appointed to three IOM/NAS Committees evaluating evidence in various aspects the area of violence against women and currently serves on the IOM Board on Global Health as well as Co-Chairing the IOM Forum on Global Violence Prevention. She is also a member of the Fulbright Specialist Roster and does work in collaboration with shelters, governments, criminal justice agencies, schools of nursing and health care settings in countries such as South Africa, Spain, New Zealand, Australia, Haiti and the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

XinQi Dong, M.D., M.P.H., (co-chair) is the Director of the Chinese Health, Aging and Policy Program and the Associate Director, Rush Institute for Healthy Aging and an Associate Professor of Medicine, Nursing, and Behavioral Sciences at the Rush University Medical Center. Dr. Dong has had long standing interests in human rights and social justice issues in vulnerable populations and his research focuses on the epidemiological studies of elder abuse, neglect and exploitation both in the U.S. and China, with particular emphasis on its adverse health outcomes. Dr. Dong has published extensively on this topic and is currently leading an epidemiological study of 3,000 Chinese older adults to quantify longitudinal relationship among culture factors, elder abuse and trajectories of psychosocial wellbeing. Dr. Dong serves on the editorial board for Journal of Elder Abuse and Neglect, Journal of Gerontology Medical Sciences, Gerontology, BioMed Research International, Journal of Aging and Health and Journal of the American Geriatric Society. As an APSA Congressional Policy Fellow/Health and Aging Policy Fellow, he served as a Senior Policy & Research Advisor for AoA/ACL and a Senior Policy Advisor for CMS. Dr. Dong also is a recipient of the Paul Beeson Award in Aging, National Physician Advocacy Merit Award, the Nobuo Maeda International Aging and Public Health Research Award, and the Maxwell Pollack Award in Productive Aging. Dr. Dong was elected to be a Commissioner for the Commission on Law and Aging of the American Bar Association (ABA), and the Board of Directors for the Chinese American Service League, the largest social services organization in the Midwest serving the needs of Chinese populations. He is a fellow of the Institute of Medicine of Chicago (IOMC) and a member of the Institute of Medicine (IOM) Global Violence Prevention Forum. He received his BA in biology and economics from the University of Chicago, his M.D. in the problem-based curriculum at Rush University College of Medicine, and his M.P.H. in epidemiology at University of Illinois at Chicago. He completed his internal medicine residency and geriatric fellowship at Yale University Medical Center.

Terry T. Fulmer, Ph.D., R.N., is Professor & Dean of the Bouve College of Health Sciences at Northeastern University. She received her bachelor's degree from Skidmore College, her master's and doctoral degrees from Boston College and her Geriatric Nurse Practitioner Post-Master's Certificate from New York University. She is an elected member of the Institute of Medicine and currently serves as vice chair of the New York Academy of Medicine. Dr. Fulmer is nationally recognized as a leading expert in geriatrics and is best known for her research on the topic of elder abuse and neglect which has been funded by the National Institute on Aging and the National Institute for Nursing Research. She most recently served as the Erline Perkins McGriff Professor of Nursing and founding Dean of the New York University College of Nursing, where she is now dean emerita. She has held faculty appointments at Boston College, Columbia University, Yale University and the Harvard Division on Aging. She is currently a visiting professor of nursing at the University Of Pennsylvania School of Nursing and adjunct Professor of Medicine at the New York University School of Medicine. Dr. Fulmer is dedicated to the advancement of intraprofessional health science education and progress in interdisciplinary practice and research. Her clinical appointments have included the Beth Israel Hospital in Boston, the Massachusetts General Hospital, and the NYU-Langone Medical Center. She is a Fellow in the American Academy of Nursing, the Gerontological Society of America, and the New York Academy of Medicine. She completed a Brookdale National Fellowship and is a Distinguished Practitioner of the National Academies of Practice. She has served as the first nurse on the board of the American Geriatrics Society and as the first nurse to serve as president of the Gerontological Society of America. She is currently a member of the Geriatrics and Gerontology Advisory Committee for the Veteran's Administration. She is a board member of Bassett Hospital, Skidmore College, and the Institute for Health Improvement.

Jeffrey E. Hall, Ph.D., MSPH, CPH, is a behavioral scientist in the Etiology and Surveillance Branch of the Division of Violence Prevention at the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control (NCIPC). He is a Youth Violence subject matter expert, an Elder Abuse subject matter expert, and Vice-Chair of the of the CDC Aging and Health Work Group. His research focuses on infant homicide, youth and young adult violence, self-neglect and elder abuse. Dr. Hall began working at the CDC in 2005. He previously served as an Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, where his teaching duties involved courses including Social Gerontology (Aging in American Society), the Social Psychology of Aging, the Sociology of Aging, and Minority Aging. Dr. Hall received his Bachelor of Science in Psychology, Master of Science in Epidemiology, Master of Arts in General Sociology and his PhD in Medical Sociology at the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Alex Kalache, Ph.D., M.D. held post as Director of the World Health Organization Department of Ageing and Life Course (WHO-ALC) from 1995 until 2008. Since then, he has been acting as Senior Policy Advisor to the President on Global Ageing at the New York Academy of Medicine and, concomitantly, as a consultant to the municipal and state governments in Rio de Janeiro and the federal government in Brasilia. Under his leadership WHO launched in 2007 the Global Movement on Age friendly cities. He also serves as HelpAge International Global Ambassador on Ageing. This combination of duties imply the establishment and the enhancement of international links, co-directing specific projects based on age-friendly approaches, fostering public-private initiatives on ageing and highlighting the importance of intersectoral action for the full implementation of the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing. Over recent years Dr. Kalache has been in the forefront of the process of strengthening Human Rights of older people at international level, most importantly toward the adoption of a UN Convention of Rights of Older People. Previously, Dr. Kalache served as founder and head of the Epidemiology of Ageing Unit at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine where he also set up the first European Master's Degree Course on Health Promotion. From 1978-1984 Dr. Kalache was a clinical lecturer at the Department of Community Health, Oxford University. Dr. Kalache was born and brought up in Brazil; he obtained his medical degree from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro, his Master's degree in Social Medicine from the University of London and his Ph.D. degree in Epidemiology from the University of Oxford. He holds several honorary positions from various universities around the world and is a board member of several professional international associations in Gerontology, Public Health and Geriatric Medicine.

Tara McMullen, M.P.H., Ph.D.(c)

Tara McMullen is a Health Analyst at the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) in the Quality Measurement & Health Assessment Group. Ms. McMullen is the Health Analyst for Nursing Homes and Home Health, working on quality measurement development for the Nursing Home and Home Health Compare sites. Ms. McMullen is a core team member of the CMS initiative, the National Partnership to Improve Dementia Care, the agency-wide initiative of the Adverse Drug Events Task Force, and the CMS Elder Maltreatment Initiative. Moreover, Ms. McMullen is a Technical Expert for the Pharmacy Quality Alliance's Technical Expert Panel on pharmacy-related measurement development. Tara has published in the New England Journal of Medicine, The Journal for Geriatrics and Gerontology Education, The Journal of Nursing Measurement, and The International Journal of Aging in Society.

Edwin L. Walker, J.D., is the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Program Operations with the Administration on Aging (AoA) within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. He serves as the chief career official for the federal agency responsible for advocating on behalf of older Americans. In this capacity, he guides and promotes the development of home and community-based long-term care programs, policies and services designed to afford older people and their caregivers the ability to age with dignity and independence and to have a broad array of options available for an enhanced quality of life. This includes the promotion and implementation of evidence-based prevention interventions proven effective in avoiding or delaying the onset of chronic disease and illness. A strong and experienced advocate for older persons, he has served as the primary liaison with Congress on legislation related to aging services and programs. For more than 25 years, he has been characterized as a consummate professional civil servant who can be relied upon to represent the best interests of our nation's senior citizens. Prior to joining the Administration on Aging, Mr. Walker served as the Director of the Missouri Division of Aging, responsible for administering a comprehensive set of human service programs for older persons and adults with disabilities. He received a J.D. degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law and a B.A. in Mass Media Arts from Hampton University.