11:15 AM

2019 Topics: Consideration and Prioritization of Potential Topics for 2019 Forum Meetings and Workshop

DAN HANFLING AND SUZET MCKINNEY
FORUM CO-CHAIRS

Potential Topics (These topics came from the “listening tour;” Additional Forum member input welcome):

- Supply chain shortages and supply chain resilience
- Infrastructure to support information and resource sharing during emergencies absent a Stafford Act declaration
- Chemical preparedness (both accidental and intentional release)
- Revisiting crisis standards of care: Successes, barriers, next steps
- Follow-on work to the Forum’s two most recent workshops on private sector capacity and nuclear preparedness

Discussion with Members

- As currently budgeted, the Forum will host at least two additional meetings and one workshop in FY 2019. From among those topics proposed, are any best suited to one format or the other?
- From a scheduling perspective, are any of these topics more acutely urgent for the Forum’s exploration? Are there other significant efforts in these areas ongoing or upcoming, and how might that impact our calendar?
- There are a number of niche topics, (e.g. vector control, MCM development incentives) that are of interest to members, but that the Forum cannot necessarily focus significant time on each year. Is there interest in developing a 24- or 36-month cycle to ensure that these issues are addressed by the Forum on a regular basis, or should they continue to be included in the agendas based on member input?

12:30 PM

Lunch

1:30 PM

The Forum could add up to two additional academic members. Disciplines suggested as priority gaps include (Additional Forum member input welcome):

- Health IT and Cyber Security
- Behavioral Health
- Pediatrics
- Supply Chain

Discussion with Members

- Are there other disciplines where whose addition to the Forum would be considered a priority?
- From amongst the identified possibilities which do members consider the top two priorities?
- Are there recommendations for specific individuals to be considered?
