Save the date for a half-day colloquium on April 12, 2019

DATE: April 12, 2019 from 8am-12:30pm

LOCATION: National Academies' Keck Center (Room 100), 500 5th St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20001

The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine invites you to attend a half-day colloquium on April 12, 2019 featuring the technologies that help communities improve traffic management, air quality control, emergency health, education access, and other social services. The talks will highlight the experiences of cities that have attempted to implement smart technologies, and participants will discuss national security and privacy issues as well as the social impact of these technologies.

This event is part of an ongoing colloquium series organized by the Intelligence Community Studies Board and sponsored by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence. Learn more about the ICSB at nas.edu/icsb.

REGISTER: Register to attend at smartcitytech.eventbrite.com. If you have questions about the event, please email us at icsb@nas.edu.
