ACCIDENTAL DEATH AND DISABILITY: THE NEGLECTED DISEASE
OF MODERN SOCIETY

DIVISION OF MEDICAL SCIENCES
NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL

In 1966, the National Academy of Sciences published Accidental Death and Disability: The Neglected Disease of Modern Society. The paper revolutionized the way we view and manage injury in America. For many of us, it helped to define our careers. I am happy to announce that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has printed a commemorative edition of the original paper. You will find many of the things we take for granted recommended in these pages. Health and safety advocates from all walks of life used it as a resource for change some 30 years ago. Our hope is that, like Accidental Death and Disability, the EMS Agenda for the Future will be your tool for the next 30 years and help you strengthen the nation's emergency medical safety net.

Whether you are reading it for the first time or recycling that tattered photo copy, I hope you enjoy this testament to the power of vision.

Warning:

The law of Georgia provides that any person who fails to relinquish a telephone party line after he has been requested to do so to permit another to place a call, in an emergency in which property or human life are in jeopardy and the prompt summoning of aid is essential, to a fire or police department or for medical aid or ambulance service, shall be guilty of and punishable as for a misdemeanor; provided that such party line at the time of the request is not being used for any such emergency call. Also, the law provides that any person who shall request the use of such party line by falsely stating that the same is needed for any of said purposes, knowing said statement to be false, shall be guilty of and punishable in a like manner.

The law of Georgia provides that any person who shall, without provocation, use to or of another, and in his presence, or by telephone, opprobrious words or abusive language, tending to cause a breach of the peace, or who shall, in like manner, use obscene and vulgar or profane language in the presence of, or by telephone to, a female, or any person who shall communicate to any virtuous female within this State by writing or printing any obscene or vulgar language or improper proposals, or by indecent or disorderly conduct in the presence of females on passenger cars, in the street cars, or other places of like character, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.
