

Discovery Research Case Study: Mobilizing Communities & Resources

March 8, 2021

Robert K Coughlin

Managing Director, Life Sciences, JLL

Former President & CEO, MassBio

Our Story

CF Foundation

Progress is Personal

The Boston Globe

For head of state's biotech trade group, drug progress is personal

By Jonathan Saltzman Globe Staff, January 1, 2019, 6:40 p.m.

Bobby Coughlin, 16, who has cystic fibrosis, with his father Robert, president of the Mass. Biotechnology Council. (JONATHAN WIGGS/GLOBE STAFF)

Bloomberg

Subscribe

How to Buy a Cure (Podcast)

Bloomberg News, January 1, 2019, 11:44 AM EST

Some patients can't wait for pharmaceutical companies to develop drugs. They're pushing the drug industry to make the cures they and their loved ones need. But what's good for patients is also good for pharma's profits, creating a web of murky incentives that makes the issue of high drug costs all the more difficult to parse. In episode 8 of the Prognosis podcast, Bloomberg's Rebecca Spalding talks to these professional patients about their relationships to the big companies whose therapies they need.

Why I Do What I Do